Ryan Preciado is an artist and designer based in Los Angeles. In some form or another, most works he's created lately are influenced by cars and / or car culture. The T.P. holders and the T.P. Tower reference 1960s VW Vans, which have beautiful air vents on their sides that Preciado has been focusing on intently of late. The two-tone color combination on the T.P. Tower is derived from the driving Preciado does in Huntington Park and Lynwood, where he witnesses compelling color combinations on semi-trucks behind which he is often stuck.
